Subject: Use of hemp seeds in food

Hello everyone,

We recently received an update on the use of hemp seeds in food. This information is different than what was given to you in the past. But with more research we have confirmed from the manufacturing team, that only sterile hemp seed derived products are allowed in food. This would also apply with CDB oil provided that it is only sterile and seed derived.

Should you have questions, please contact us.

Thank you,

Joanne
